

“IT’S OUR JOB
TO KEEP THAT
PEBBLE IN YOUR SHOE
FROM BECOMING A BOULDER
IN YOUR BVDs.”

If you operate a business aircraft – or plan to – you are already good at looking down the road. At Guardian Jet, we can help tackle the tough issues associated with owning a turbine airplane before the pebbles turn into boulders. What is the pebble in your shoe? Whether it’s aircraft insurance, transition training, overseeing maintenance or tax questions, we want to help.

These are the kinds of issues we handle at Guardian Jet.

They typically start out as small pebbles of irritation – simple questions, requests, or uncertainties – but they can quickly turn into real pain-in-the-shorts dilemmas under the pressure of a busy schedule.

That’s why we’re here.

We’ve made it our business to help people find answers and make connections with the expert resources they need. So they can relax and really enjoy the benefits of owning a turbine aircraft.

Yes, we do sell and broker airplanes. But aviation hardware is not our only focus. Instead, we view client-centered consulting and oversight services as the core from which sales and brokerage opportunities can naturally evolve.

If we do a first-rate job of supporting you as an owner, we trust you’ll be more inclined to give us a shot at representing you as a buyer or seller at trade-up time.

A new paradigm? Absolutely. And we’d love to tell you more. So, give us a call. Whether it’s a boulder, a pebble, or something in between – Guardian Jet is ready to help crunch the problem.
