

WE CAN HELP YOU BUY.
WE CAN HELP YOU FLY.
WE CAN HELP YOU SELL.

BUT MAINLY, WE CAN HELP YOU RELAX.

Whatever it is you need to see happen next, Guardian Jet can help.

Whether it's buying a jet. Or selling one. Or delivering the expertise you need to operate, maintain and oversee the myriad details of ownership — we're here to simplify the process. And remove any barriers that stand between you and that ideal next step.

At Guardian Jet, our focus is on long-term customer relationships. Not just the short-term opportunity events connected to an aircraft sale.

That difference in perspective makes a world of difference to you.

We view customer-driven Services and Consulting as the foundation from which sales and brokerage opportunities naturally evolve.

In other words, we're confident that when we work hard to assist you as an aircraft owner, we will be ideally positioned to represent you when it's time to make your next trade.

Which obviously makes the process a whole lot more relaxed.

Fact is, we've built a thriving jet brokerage business by making brokerage the last thing we sell. Who's better suited to maximize value for you at trade-up time than a company that's proven they're with you for the long haul?

No other team in business aviation offers you a broader range of client services and operational caregiving. Everything from backup crews and maintenance oversight to flight standards and RVSM certification. Insurance, tax and financial consulting, and much more — all part of the Guardian Jet package. And all key to the success we've enjoyed thus far as a company. We believe that how far we go for our customers is directly related to how long that relationship will last.

A new paradigm? Absolutely. The next step? Let us tell you more.
